About the Basavakalyan

Basavakalyan was the Capital of the Second Dynasty of Chalukya and Kalchuri enjoyed a great political status in the South India during the Medieval period. Today Kalyan is called Basavakalyan on account of religious and social movement led by Basaveshwar. He started the religious movement of Veershaivism which is also called 'Sharna Movement'. He wrote Vacahanas in simple and lucid kannada which could easily impress upon the leader of the socio-religious movement with a number of Sharanas , Allam Prabhu, Channa Basavanna, Siddarama, Akka Mahadevi, Madival Machidevaru, Mollige Marahayya, Dohara Kakkayya and so on. There are many important places at Basavakalyan which are relics of its ancient glory and the great historical past. The Basavakalyan Fort is situated on a rocky ground, Basaveshwar Temple, Parusha-Katta, Kambli Math, Aravin Mane of Lord Basaveshwara, Prabhudevar Gadduge, Madival Machayyana Honda , Akka Nagamma's Cave, Ghanalinga Rudramuni's Cave, Nuli Chandayya Gavi,Bandavara Oni, Sadananda Swamy Math, Tripuranth Lake, Basava-Vana and Basavakalyan Mahadwar. Apart from these places, one more important Muslim Saints Raja Baga Savar Darga is located here.

Theme of the Conference :

Literature and language play a vital role in moulding the sensibility of people in the society. The community living over the years has evolved its own culture. Presently the culture is passing through many new facets and assuming new students. Subalternity a major concern in socio-cultural, economic and political spares is also the focus of this conference. In an unrefined sense, any individual/socio-cultural group, who/which is pushed to the peripheries of the given society and finds himself /itself deprived dejected and subordinated in his/its social life is defined as the subaltern. Behind this inequality in any society, the emancipator politics plays the lead role, which has multi-faceted approach. From the skin colour to gender, birth and death, a lot of factors like caste, colour, race, gender, sexual orientation, ability/disability etc. stand within the subaltern umbrella, which forces some specific groups of people to be devoid of the fundamental rights that they actually deserve as citizens of the set-up.

The conference aims at foregrounding as many topics as possible in different facets of language , literature, community and culture in order to encourage the scholars working in different disciplines of language and literature to present papers.
